The DIMMER VIEW

Due Process for Taxpayers

The great defender of citizens' rights—Fightin' Bill Craven—has joined forces with the world's most maligned majority—the American taxpayer.

Who is he leading his following against? Only the Internal Revenue Service; the State Income Tax Department and the County Assessors.

Craven didn't do too good a job in protecting San Diegans against County taxes when he served as a supervisor because tax costs rose and rose. Yet, he shouldn't be faulted alone, for he was aided and abetted by four other supervisors served by wide-ranging county departments of tax spenders.

Not many know the effect Craven had on the Board of Supervisors while he served. Fact is that the group seemed to pull together when Craven was a member and there was little bickering and no outward signs of internal warfare.

Today there are more individual "border incidents" in one meeting than there were along Golan Heights all last year.

At least one reporter "fears for his life" when he attends a supervisors' meeting on Tuesdays.

Supervisors may not agree that Craven was the soothing influence when he served there. Perhaps Craven won't either. But he was there at a time of comparative quiet. Now he's gone and there is turmoil.

It is fashioned after the oldest joke of them all. It had to do with two fellows in a fight. One had an old-fashioned razor with which he took a roundhouse swipe at his antagonist's neck.

"Ha," chortled the antagonist, "It never touched me." "Wait 'til you try to turn your head," said the razor wielder.

And that's the way it was with the supervisors. They didn't try turning their collective heads until long after Craven had ascended to his present post as Assemblyman of the 80th District, County of San Diego.

So much for background. Now let's take a look down Craven's taxpayers' pathway to salvation.

Better yet, let's use Craven's own words because they make sense. Let's hope that he will be able to implement his determination.

Craven says: "The United States Constitution guarantees each citizen due process of law and the presumption of innocence until proven guilty. But those guarantees don't seem to apply to one segment of the populace, the taxpayers.

"If a taxpayer disagrees with his income or property tax assessment, the fact is that he's considered wrong (or 'guilty') and the burden of proof is on him to establish his innocence.

"It's a tangled problem. The separation of powers was established to provide checks and balances in making laws, administering them, and achieving justice in the courts.

"But over the years Congress and state legislatures have delegated the power to make and enforce laws to various administrative bureaucracies. Under current tax administration, there is no separation and no due process.

"In a dispute, tax agencies can levy liens against the taxpayer, who in effect is presumed guilty until he proves he is not liable for the taxes claimed. The tax agency, already the prosecutor, then becomes the judge and jury.

One effort to reform this inequity is SB 443. Called by some 'The Taxpayers' Bill-of-Rights', this measure provides that the taxpayer or assessee can no longer be presumed guilty before a hearing, and that the burden of proof is on the tax man.

"The State Senate approved the measure by a vote of 22-2 a year ago, but it still languishes in the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee where its chances are considered remote.

"It is opposed, of course, by the Board of Equalization, the Franchise Tax Board, and county assessors. Their reservations are valid ones.

Such a measure, they fear, would impose severe changes in their operations and erect difficult obstacles that would take time and strenuous effort to overcome. They also fear that if taken to the extreme, it could conceivably dry up the tax coffers and clog the courts.

"In the opinion of the Legislative Counsel, however, the measure would still leave tax agencies with considerable power. Enough power, one would hope, to do their job fairly and effectively.

"Perhaps, as the assessors claim, the measure is unrealistic, would create massive problems, and should not be tried. Maybe.

"But, somehow it seems wrong to deny the law abiding taxpayer the same presumption of innocence that is granted criminals.

"It comes down to this question: Can't we afford to let the Constitution apply to the taxpayers?"

Mighty fine words from ol' Fightin' Bill. Let's hope he can implement his philosophy!

Political Arithmetic

A State senator revealed last week that "all levels of direct taxation now consumes 45 per cent of the average wage earner's salary.

That means that the wage earner, every week—week in and week out—works 18 hours a week for those who guzzle at the public fount. The remaining 22 hours may be used for family support against a rising tide of inflation incurred by the people who use nearly half of your income to make prices spiral upward into inflation.

As you read this on Thursday, you will have to contribute your full wages today and tomorrow, plus two hours from Wednesday just to meet the tax bill laid on you by those who promised to cut taxes when we elected them.

Tax Rate Undetermined

Assessor Tilts Values 16 Per Cent in County

There's good news and bad. The good news is that your property tax rate will probably go down this year.

Your assessed valuation will rise.

Even that is good news — if you're selling your property and the sale price is based on the assessor's valuation.

Property owners, on the whole, have learned that any changes — and they come a couple of times a year, in some instances — usually cost the owner more money.

More factually, E. Charles Williams, the County Assessor, announced that the 1974 assessed valuation for secured property is $4,284,725,000 — an increase of 16.4 per cent.

Last year the increase was 13.8 per cent.

That doesn't necessarily mean that your property's valuation has risen 30.2 per cent in two years. The total valuation includes much new construction.

If your tax bill is to be higher for the 1974-75 tax year depends on the tax rate — and that has yet to be determined.

The Homeowner's Exemption of $1,750 ($7,000 of market value) will be shown as a deduction again this year. Altogether this amounts to $434 million — $19 million more than the year before.

Other exemptions amount to $119 million — up $12 million. These include churches, hospitals, colleges and veterans.

More than $727 million in new construction in 1973 was a part of the increase. An increase of 17,875 new subdivision parcels were created.

Those whose property was suffered an increase in assessed valuation have been notified by mail by the assessor's office, Williams said.

He said the unsecured roll, yet to be totaled, appears to be up about 11.5 per cent to $471 million.

By law, assessed value is established at one-fourth the current market value. The Assessor establishes these values by sale of similar properties in similar locales.

Total assessed value is measured against the annual budget established by the County Board of Supervisors. This establishes a tax rate. This rate is levied against all property and the rate multiplied by the assessed value of each parcel establishes the amount of tax the owner will pay.

Elementary, huh? But cost together this amounts to $434

Board of Sups To Be Enlarged

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — A proposal to increase the number of supervisors from five to seven will appear on the November ballot, the Board of Supervisors decided in a 4-0 vote. Supervisor Jack Walsh was absent.

A report commending the measure was presented by former San Diego mayor Frank Curran, chairman of the Citizen's Committee for the Review of the San Diego Charter. The twenty-five member committee was established in January with the initial task of reviewing the County Charter as to (1) the number of its members; (2) the way in which Supervisors are elected; and (3) the term of office of the chairman.

The name of Jim Dorman, a Lemon Grove attorney has been named prominently among those who might be suitable in the event of an appointment. It is probable that he will enter the November race.

PUC Approves 4% Rate Hike

San Diego Gas & Electric has been granted a 4% increase in electric rates as of July 1. The announcement came from the State Public Utilities Commission last Friday, and the increase, says a SDG&E spokesman, will offset higher fuel costs.

The increase will raise the bill for a typical residential home usage of 500 kilowatt hours by about 53 cents a month.

Census Bureau Survey Here on Home Costs

A sample of households and major replacements. The remainder ($8.1 billion) went for maintenance and repairs. Information reported to the Census Bureau is held in strict confidence by law. The reports published are in terms of totals only. No information that would identify an individual or household is ever released.

The survey is taken four times yearly to provide a continuing measure of this segment of America's economy. The sample of households here are among the approximate 6,000 throughout the United States that will be asked about alterations, repairs, and additions to their homes.

Total expenditures for the upkeep and improvement of residential properties amounted to $18.8 billion (seasonally adjusted annual rate) in third quarter 1973, up from the rate of $17.0 billion for the second quarter. More than half ($10.7 billion) was spent for construction improvements such as additions, alterations, and fiscal accountability within the program has not developed to match the job of distributing nearly $50 million a month in food stamps to nearly one and a half million Californians. Virtually all control of the program rests with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The state and counties can plead with Washington to make improvements."

The last "commodity counties" — Alpine, Glenn, Lake, Napa, Plumas, San Bernardino, San Diego, and Sutter—have passed out their final supply of free food purchased by the federal government under the 41 year-old Commodity Program and are now issuing food stamps which can be used like money to buy food.

The shift to stamps has been gradually occurring since 1964 when Humboldt County issued food stamps as part of a U.S. Department of Agriculture pilot project.

"Two basic factors seem to have caused the demise of the Commodity Program," said Thackery, office of the County State Benefit Payments Director David B. Swoap.

"One has been increasing federal emphasis on food awareness and sense of responsibility in solving the Act of 1964. The culmination problem of unwanted puppies of this was last year's farm and kittens.

The County spay program, utilizing private veterinary clinics under contract, is expected to provide 10,000 surgeries during 1974. Other veterinary practitioners will perform an additional 20,000 sterilizations this year.

The County encourages the spaying of female dogs by offering one free license for up to two years to each newly spayed dog, and a 50 per cent discount on the cost of all licenses thereafter. The higher Dr. Thackery,

Expanded County Park Ready For Campers

A newly constructed area of William Heise County Park has been opened to the public for camping, according to an announcement from the San Diego County Parks and Recreation Department.

The park is being opened on special conditions for the public to use until all construction is completed.

The camping sites will be available on a first-come, first-served basis and no campsite reservations will be taken until the park is fully completed. Camping site fees are $3 per night until further notice.

There are a total of 39 new sites in the park.

Youth group areas will be available at a later date when reservations will be accepted.

Under the Food Stamp Program low-income eligible persons receive from their county welfare department certificates allowing them to buy food stamps at a discount from a food stamp sales agent, such as a bank or post office. The stamps are then taken to a market and used to make purchases.

The amount and cost of stamps which may be purchased is determined by the number of persons in the low-income family.

Food Stamp Program Replaces Surplus Food Distribution

The transition from surplus food distribution to food stamps for California welfare recipients is quietly being completed this month.

The last "commodity counties" — Alpine, Glenn, Lake, Napa, Plumas, San Bernardino, San Diego, and Sutter—have passed out their final supply of free food purchased by the federal government under the 41 year-old Commodity Program and are now issuing food stamps which can be used like money to buy food.

County Spay Program 'Operation' Success

Pet spays are continuing at license fee for an unspayed a high rate of over 800 per female pays for these dis-month according to Dr. Dean counts and provides added incentive to obtain surgery.

This year, the County's spay program won an achievement award from the National Association of Counties (NACo).

The award will be presented to County officials at the NACo annual conference July 14-17 in Miami Beach, Florida.

According to Dr. Thackery, the use of contract private veterinary clinics offers an effective and inexpensive alternative to government operated spay clinics.

The spay program and all other County animal regulation services are supported entirely from dog licenses and shelter service fees and are not added to the property owner's tax burden, according to Dr. Thackery.

'Archeological Findings Don't Explain Miracles' Says Adventist

"No new discovery has been as spectacular as the finding of the dead sea scrolls," says an archeologist who himself has made 18 "Dig Trips" to the Middle East.

Dr. Siegfried Horn, dean of the Seventh-day Adventist theological seminary at Andrews University, Berrien Springs, Michigan, expressed this opinion before nearly 500 ministers attending the Adventist Bible Conference at Pacific Union College here this week. Forty-three ministers from the Southeastern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists are attending, representing five county areas, including San Diego.

In 1960 the archeologist who spent several weeks with an expedition searching for Noah's ark at Mount Ararat now believes the ark may have been destroyed shortly after the flood. Horn said he feels that the survivors of the flood may have used the timbers of the ark to build their homes in a world newly recovered from total deluge.

"While it would be a marvelous discovery," Horn agreed, "Finding the ark would not help prove any arguments on the value of keeping the Sabbath. Seventh-day Adventists worship on the calendar's 7th day.

What he seems most concerned about is the fact that current digs are producing "Faith-confirming evidence in the authority and authenticity of God's word.

"One thing archeological discoveries can't do is shed light on miraculous events such as the plagues of Egypt, the virgin birth of Jesus, His walk on the sea or His resurrection," Horn continued.

Giving some practical suggestions concerning the use of archeology by the ministers assembled, Horn emphasized that only recently published works can provide up-to-date information in this discipline which is constantly subject to change.

Another point of advice was that only books written by experts should be purchased. Moreover, all were urged, "Maintain a healthy amount of critical attitude toward all archeological writings."

According to Horn archeology is an auxiliary science for the theologian and it probably has three purposes — to eliminate the Bible, fill in the gaps, and verify Biblical historical facts.

John Stull Wins 'Justice' Award

Senator John Stull (R-38th District) was honored by the California Justice Foundation with an "Amicus Juridicus" ("friend of justice") award for his "outstanding contributions to the administration of justice in the United States."

Stull received the award, a framed certificate, at a luncheon held in Sacramento.

Attending the ceremony were Sacramento Appellate Court Justice Robert Puglia and George Paras, Sacramento Superior Court Justice Joseph Babich, Sentaors Craig Biddle (R-Riverside), George Deukmejian (R-Long Beach), and Dennis Carpenter (R-Newport Beach), and Assemblyman Ray Seelye (R-Blythe), Mike Antonovich (R-Glendale), Bob Burke (R-Huntington Beach), Paul Bannai (R-Gardena), Newton Russell (R-Burbank), Bob McLennan (R-Downey) and Floyd Wakefield (R-Downey).

Justice Foundation Vice President Robert Von Esch, Jr., of Fullerton cited Stull's 1971 legislation which allows private citizens to recover reasonable attorney's fees when successfully suing public agencies regarding arbitrary and capricious rulings.

Stull refers to this law as his "you-can-fight-City-Hall" bill.

'Good News, America!' Bible Society Theme

The American Bible Society enters the nation's bicentennial era with the announcement of this slogan—"Good News, America!" — a theme designed to relate the Scriptures to the nation's 200th birthday celebration.

"The best news is that the entire Bible in the Today's English Version will be published in 1976," asserted the Rev. Dr. Laton E. Holmgren, general secretary. "This bicentennial Bible will be the Society's gift to America on its 200th anniversary and may well be the publication event of the decade."

When the New Testament was published in the Today's English Version in 1966, it zoomed right to the top of the best seller list and remained on that list for four years. It is now the best selling paperback in history, having taken that place in 1971.

A team of scholars headed by the Rev. Dr. Robert G. Bratcher, research associate of the American Bible Society, began translation of the Old Testament in the Today's English Version in 1967.

The "Good News Bible" is expected to exceed the distribution record of "Good News for Modern Man," the popular name for the Today's English Version New Testament. For all those who cannot afford the non-profit cost of the entire "Good News Bible," the Society plans to distribute Good News Scriptures, where needed, without charge, to the homeless, the homeless, the homeless.

According to Dr. Holmgren, the purpose of "Good News, America!" will be a massive and prolonged effort to put the Scriptures in the hands of every man, woman and child in the nation — in a language each one can read and understand.

"It will truly be good news for America," he said, "when the Scriptures are in the hands of the new readers, the elderly, the children, migrant workers, the poor, the mentally and physically handicapped, as well as everyone who needs a higher-than-human support in this age of anxiety."

Baha'i Ceremony At A. Smith's

Baha'is and friends of Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, Lake-side and Santee will gather to observe the Martyrdom of the Bab on July 9th according to Jerry Reich, of Lemon Grove, vice-chairman of the Spiritual Assembly.

The meeting will be at the home of Andrew Smith in Spring Valley.

The Bab, whose name means "Gate" is considered the Prophet-Herald of the Baha'i Faith. He was thirty-one years old when on July 9, 1850 he was martyred by a firing squad in Tabriz, Iran (Persia).

The Bab proclaimed the coming of a new world civilization in which mankind would be united. He foretold the coming of Baha'u'llah, Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith who Baha'is consider as the Bearer of God's Word for this age.

San Diego Hosts International Drip Irrigation Parley July 7

Some 2,000 persons, many of drip irrigation to reduce operating costs, especially where crop growers must contend with soil, water, and terrain problems. Less water is used through drip irrigation than through conventional irrigation methods because the water is applied only where the tree or plant needs it.

San Diego County is a national leader in the development and commercial agricultural use of drip irrigation.

More than 90 scientists and practical irrigation specialists from the U.S., Mexico, Europe, South America, Africa, Asia, and Australia will report on their drip irrigation research findings during the course of the Congress program.

The Congress is being co-sponsored by the University of California and the U.S. Department of Agriculture and will meet at the Sheraton Harbor Island Hotel in San Diego.

The Congress has two main objectives. "One of them," Co-chairman Davis of USDA explained, "is to provide a forum for scientists from different parts of the world to present results from their drip irrigation research and to discuss them with their peers.

These technical reports and discussions are scheduled for the first days of the program.

"The second objective is to provide a forum where people interested in drip irrigation can listen to talks about results of field trials and experiences of other with drip irrigation installations. These presentations will be made during the latter part of the program."

More than 70 spaces available for commercial exhibitors of drip irrigation have been leased at the Congress site. Their exhibits will be open July 11 and remain on display through July 13.

Developed first for commercial agriculture in Israel, drip irrigation was little more than a novel concept for watering plants four years ago in America. Results from a survey conducted this year show that today more than 71,000 acres of U.S. agricultural crops are under drip irrigation. This figure is expected to triple in the next five years.

The main factor behind this interest has been the potential of drip irrigation to reduce operating costs, especially where crop growers must contend with soil, water, and terrain problems. Less water is used through drip irrigation than through conventional irrigation methods because the water is applied only where the tree or plant needs it.

Simply put, drip irrigation involves the application of small steady amounts of water to soil through mechanical devices called emitters located at selected points along water delivery lines. It enables a grower to control more precisely the amount of water applied and its placement.

California leads the nation in acreage under drip irrigation. Davis and Gustafson pioneered the introduction of drip irrigation to commercial agriculture in this state. Of California's some 60,000 acres under drip irrigation, about 14,000 of them are in San Diego County. Citrus and avocado orchards lead the list of California crops under drip irrigation.

Scouts 'Hit The Hill'

Over 165 Scout Troops from this area are attending a long term summer camp at Mataguay Scout Reservation near Warner Springs and Camp Hual-cu-cuish in the Cuyamaca Mountains where the sea son opened Sunday (June 23). It's all part of a year-around camping program of San Diego County Council, Boy Scouts of America, according to Dr. Thomas Webster of La Mesa, Camping Chairman. An additional 15 or 20 troops have permit applications for camping out of Council for their long term experience said Webster.

While each troop is taking part in its' camping experience the Scouts have an opportunity to practice many of the educational opportunities that are a part of the total Scouting program, Webster said. "These traditional strengths of Scouting are most effective in a summer camp experience," Webster continued, "a good example is the patrol method." "It gives boys an opportunity to learn how to get along with others by actually running their own troop through the troop leaders' council."

Camping experiences will include hiking, swimming, canoeing, archery, marksmanship under NRA regulations, and just plain fun. Scouts will learn about nature, study plant and animal life, practice conservation, and work on a variety of Merit Badges. Camps will run on weekly sessions commencing each Sunday at 2 p.m. until Summer Camp ends on September 7.

On Saturday Ranchero beat the N.I.F.D. 15-8. Denise Christensen won the batting crown with a .493 average.

Régina Pena, Sandy Chapman and Cathy Saucer combined to pitch Lomita Bowl to a 5-0 win over Delp.

Jenny Stattard finished the season with 145 strikeouts in pitching Bancroft Speedy to a 6-3 win over Tire World.

S.D. Linen, to give Little Eden a 5-4 win.

Sportland behind the combined pitching of Barbara Woolston and Allie Humphries beat the S.V. Woman's Club 17-1.

Tom's Meats finished the season in second place with a 15-4 mark as Tina Canela, Pam Perettie and Kim Cox combined on a one-hitter for a 17-5 win over Medical Printing.

S.V. Center beat Thomas 7-5 to end their season in third place with an 11-10 record.

EYES CHAMPIONSHIP—Randy Shields' boxing gear is adjusted by his Mom. Randy is a 21-year old undefeated Junior Welterweight who is trained by his father, film stuntman Sonny Shields. The youngster fights Felix Alvarado at the San Diego Coliseum Friday night putting his 10-0 record on the line.

long hike and that takes them up to 9-9:30. Until sleep comes Randy is thinking — thinking about the strategy he'll use against his next opponent so that he can remain undefeated.

Is it worth all the work and dedication? Randy says it is.

"I plan to be welterweight champion of the world in the next two years. That's my goal. The only way to achieve my goal is to work at my trade — everyday.

"My dad has been teaching me since I was 10. I think we have a winning combination."

Randy's record is 10-0. He will test his record Friday at the Coliseum against durable Felix Alvarado of Mexico.

Last Week

Vicente Medina is Arizona's middleweight boxing champion but he lacked the expertise Friday to unravel Denny Moyer's style.

Denny Moyer, 34, is a Portland bar owner who once held the junior middleweight crown. He still moves like a champ although little flabs are beginning to show on his hips.

Instead of a brawl, which the crowd had expected, it was a boxing-match dance. After the midway point Moyer outscored Medina completely. But the thousand or so fans felt unrewarded. They booed roundly throughout the fight. The judges decision was unanimous for Moyer.

But the other bouts weren't booed. There was action aplenty.

In the featherweight opener, Filipino Ad Zapanta scored a technical knockout over Felix Garcia in the 5th round of a scheduled 10. Zapanta decked Garcia twice for compulsory 8 counts. The ring doctor refused to let Garcia answer the 5th round bell.

Rocky Heverly dispatched Otto Walls in 1:15 of the second of a scheduled four-round middleweight battle. A roundhouse left caught Walls coming in. In a momentarily-decked KO, Walls remained stooped over as though looking for a place to fall, grimaced, fell and lay prone. The referee didn't bother to count.

In the finale, Julio Lopez came from behind to beat Tommy Nova. The two lightweights provided plenty of action but the decision for Lopez was unanimous.

When Randy Fights It's a Family Affair

by Mickey Davis

Over the years there have been many father-son "teams" in boxing.

The most notable was William (Young) Stribling, the "Georgia Peach" of the early '30s, and "Pa" Stribling his father-manager. Stribling fought Max Schmeling for the world's heavyweight championship at Cleveland, in 1931, and not only was "Pa" in the corner, but "Ma" Stribling, Willie's aging mother, acted as a 'second' as well.

In recent years, it was heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry who was under the guidance of his father (Jack) for some time.

Friday at the Coliseum is another Pop and Son combo — Junior welterweight Randy Shields, and his stunt man Dad, Sonny.

Sonny is only his youngster's manager, but teaches him the art of busting another guy's beak as well. The two are inseparable.

From 5:30 a.m., when they arise at their North Hollywood home, they start the day off with about 8 miles of roadwork. Unlike most trainers, Sonny runs every step of the way with his 21-year-old son. The elder Shields is 38-years old, and is in excellent condition.

Two Hours of Rest

After jogging, the pair return to their home for a two-hour rest break — and then breakfast. This hearty meal is prepared by Mrs. Shields. Following that is a long walk through the streets of N. Hollywood, past Universal City studios, then back home for more training.

At two in the afternoon, Randy and Sonny don boxing gear and enter the ring. They go through fundamentals, balance and a tuneup of the lad's combination punches. Mom — Marge Shields — then joins the pair at ringside with a stop watch — three minutes of boxing and 30 seconds rest. The father-son team box 8-10 rounds in each of these sessions, followed by an hour of body exercises.

That doesn't end the work day. After dinner they take a

Prothro Accepts Girls' Clubs Post

The game is sponsored by the combined Girls' Clubs of San Diego County and the S.D. Football Coaches Assn. Proceeds from the event will be used to improve programs and facilities of the seven girls' clubs in the county.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

There was, in times past, a pure and simple motivation for youngsters to undergo the stern demands of self-inflicted pain necessary for athletic accomplishment.

The grind of training was suffered in order to feel the sheer exhilaration of competition. Sporting events were played of and for themselves.

And it's still done. A visit to the beach, playground, sandlots, or friendly back yard will find youngsters, and oldsters too, trying their hand at volleyball, badminton, one-on-one basketball, bocce, soccer, pingpong and hundreds of other athletic activities for the pleasure of playing. Winning, on the you-and-me level, isn't all that important.

But there is a growing trend to emulate the time when the world of sport was a fight for survival. When a boxing match was fought to the death. When the losers of the race were fed to the lions. When man, in all his inhumanity, paid tribute only to success.

Such dedication or philosophy, in professional sports and under proper guidance, may have its place. It was certainly the basis for such athletic success stories as the Ernie Lombardi, Frank Leahy, Knute Rockne, Don Shula, Tom Landry series.

Though each applied his theories differently, the rock bottom foundation was work, sweat, tears and talent . . . "cause winning wasn't everything, it was the only thing."

There are draft laws, and laws of economics, rival teams and leagues, a watchful congress and a self-centered players association all serving checks and balances to how much one can grab from the other without having to give up or give in.

They use the tools of laws and labor to effect a kind of truce, broken only when one side feels strong enough to test one or more of the others.

Now that is all very well and good for the professionals. They officially play for money and when one side or the other wants to gamble on a test of strength, they are playing with their own time, success and earnings. Someday the public is going to get fed up with labor squabbles among people in the $30 to $90 thousand a year class and ignore the entire pro-sports world. And the Pros will have asked for it.

There is a real and more immediate danger. The win-at-any-price philosophy is dropping down from professional ranks and corrupting young athletes all the way down to the Little Leagues and Pop Warner football.

It isn't bad enough that most colleges teach double standards and athletic cheating. Today we find high schools doing the same.

As a matter of some minor interest, every high school in San Diego County is cheating on basic California Interscholastic ederation (CIF) rules. If any one of them, and that's all 55 high schools in the county, were to play in the Los Angeles CIF district, they would be forced to forfeit their games.

As an example, football practice is not supposed to start before the first week of September. Yet, not one county school lives up to this rule.

Oh, they change the name of the class to "physical education" and don't use pads, or call it football practice. But every hopeful out for the football team is there and the word around school is, he'd better be.

Ever wonder what kind of gym classes the basketball team has out of season? Don't even bother guessing your second guess. You were right the first time.

Doesn't it gall your sensibilities to see "double treats" handed out to Little Leaguers, all the way down to the "Cap" league, for winning a game? That's a payoff for 8-year olds.

Small wonder that a major scandal is prophesied for collegiate sports, professionals are on strike and high schools are under "special" observation from regulating bodies.

A recent news story told of how an 18-year old boy was wooed to enroll in a certain well known university by being given a brand new "luxury" automobile and a $7-per hour job. The NCAA is, of last report, "investigating."

But who's fault is it that something like that could happen? The boy? Certainly not. He's more the victim.

The alumni fan for giving or offering such riches, or the school for encouraging its alumni to do such things? Perhaps. But they're in competition, too.

When you get right down to it, isn't that just the end result of some you and I teach right at home? That winning, not participating, is the prize.

When was the last time you gave "double treats" to your youngsters for winning a game?

BIG GIVEAWAY—Ecstasy wreathes the face of Charity Hope Valentine (Isabelle Farrell) as she makes contact with her newest boy friend, Bob Hanley. It's part of the fun in the engaging musical comedy "Sweet Charity" now playing at San Diego's Off Broadway.

'Sweet Charity' Said Top Summer Fare at Off Broadway

By Max Goodwin
With a name like Charity Hope Valentine what could you expect?

A play called "Sweet Charity" — what else? Isabelle Farrell's stage name is Charity Hope Valentine — and that tips off the story line for the musical comedy now playing on the stage of the Off Broadway theatre in San Diego.

In the title dissection, Miss Farrell, an extremely talented actress, is charitable as any attractive dime-a-dance hall artist can be. She gives to her suitors what some of the other girls sell.

Why? Because she has deeply embedded "hope" that "Mr. Right" is the guy in her arms. And for the "valentine", she has the need that most humanoids have — the need to be loved. Only her need is deeper and stronger than in most girls.

And that's the story. Girl loses guy. Girl gets guy. Girl

Del Mar Futurity to Offer $60,000 In Season's Finale

Haggin Stakes winner The Bagel Prince tops the list of 150 two-year-olds kept eligible for the 27th running of the $60,000-added Del Mar Futurity, traditional highlight of the seaside track's closing day card, Wednesday, Sept. 11.

The stretch-winning son of Grounded II was one of 823 original nominees to the Futurity, which will be run for the first time at one mile on the main track.

Del Mar's championship event for two-year-olds takes on added significance this season as the first leg of the recently announced Western Juvenile Triple Crown. Consisting of the Futurity, Oak Tree's enriched Norfolk Stakes and the California Juvenile Stakes at Bay Meadows, the late-season series lends a unity to west coast juvenile competition and could produce a contender for the three-year-old classics of the following year.

The Bagel Prince has already shown he may relish the middle distance routes of the Western Triple, winning three of his five starts from well off the pace. He took second in the Westchester Stakes at Hollywood Park prior to his Haggin victory, in which the bay Cal-bred came from far back to win going away in 1:03 4/5

Padres on Road as Last Half of Season Unwinds

Whether or not it will be a least based on prior meet-fond farewell remains to be seen, but the Padres will be bidding final adieu to the Eastern seaboard as they make their last trip of the season to Philadelphia and New York. The season passed its half-way mark during the Padres recent home stay.

The Padres, who opened July with three games in San Francisco, will spend this next week meeting the Phillies and the Mets as action against National League Eastern Division clubs begins again. The Pads will be hosted by the Phillies from July 5-7 and then will travel up the road to test the Mets, July 8-10.

"We're still very much in a portion of the schedule where we are playing ball clubs we've gotten the jump on in earlier meetings," Padre manager John McNamara said. "Our biggest successes this season have come against Eastern Division clubs so the schedule is in our favor, at

The Padres stand at 21-14 overall against the Eastern Division and have been particularly tough on the Phillies. San Diego has bested the Quaker City crew in five of six contests to date and these games are the only thing keeping the Phillies from holding down a comfortable lead in the East.

"This is one thing we'll have to keep in mind," said the San Diego skipper. "No matter how successful you've been against a club in the past you can't let your guard down. What's past is past and what counts is what's happening right at this moment."

"The Phillies will be after us not only to gain back a little lost pride, but also to make sure they maintain their position near the top of the Eastern Division standings. It looks like it's going to be another mass scramble all season in the East so every game will be of extreme importance. Every game lost now will look twice as big in September," summed up McNamara.

Actually, the Padres will be closing out the entire season series with both the Phillies and the Mets in the next few weeks as both clubs will be paying a return visit to San Diego July 16-21 which will complete the 12 scheduled games with each club.

PUC Slices Rate Hike Request by San Diego G & E

The California Public Utilities Commission has granted San Diego Gas & Electric a 4% increase for electric rates to offset the utility's higher cost of fuel. The utility was seeking a 6.2% increase, or $15,010,000. The grant for $9,673,400.

The PUC said it had thoroughly reviewed SDG&E's data and differed with the utility in three areas, finding that:

—For the 1974-75 test period the average cost per barrel for residual fuel oil should be $10.70 rather than the 11.17 estimated by SDG&E.

—More power purchased from others will be available than the utility estimates, and —The utility's forecast of demand for electricity will be lower than SDG&E estimates because of the 10% voluntary cut-back in usage sought by the PUC.

The PUC also required the utility to acquire written assurance from the Federal Energy Office that oil price increases comply with that office's rules and regulations.

Under the increase authorized, bills for a typical residential usage of 500-kilowatt hours a month will go up 53c. A higher percentage of the increase will be borne by SDG&E's larger customers.

By classes of service, the increase will be 3.6% for domestic, 4.1% for agriculture, 3.9% for commercial, 5.4% for industrial, and 2.2% for public authority.

The increase became effective July 1.

Berra, Banks and Mays In July 20 'Old Timer'

Hall of Fame catcher Yogi Berra plus all-time standouts Ernie Banks and Willie Mays have accepted invitations to participate in this year's Old-Timers Game scheduled for Saturday, July 20.

Berra, currently the manager of the defending National League champion New York Mets, gained fame as the ace catcher for the perennial World Champion New York Yankees from 1946-63. He was home runs and then in 1954 he went .307 with 125 RBI and 22 home runs. He also broke the .300 barrier in 1948 with a .305.

Berra is one of the few players ever to win the coveted American League Most Valuable Player three times; 1951, 1954 and 1955.

The talented Berra appeared in 15 All-Star Games and holds the record for the most all-time hits with 71 and ranks third in home runs with 12.

Pennant Winner
As a manager, he guided the 1961 Yankees to the American League pennant after spending 1963 as a member of the coaching staff. From the Yanks, he switched crosstown to the Mets where he served as a coach from 1965-71 when he took over as manager following the death of Gil Hodges. His 1972 team placed third and then last year's crew won the pennant.

Another acceptant with 19 years of major league service is the versatile Ernie Banks who spent his entire playing career (1953-71) with the Chicago Cubs.

The National League's Most Valuable Player in 1958 and 1959, Banks posted a career batting average of .274. He ranks ninth on the all-time home run list with 512.

Five times he hit 40 or more home runs in a season and eight times he knocked in 100 or more runs. He topped the National League in home runs in 1958 (47) and 1960 (41) and led the circuit in RBI in 1958 (129) and 1959 (143).

Banks was selected for the All-Star Game 14 times and wound up action in that classic with a .303 average.

.993 At First
The former shortstop and first baseman is one of the top fielders at both positions in the history of the game. He ranks fourth in fielding average for first baseman at .993 and is fifth as a shortstop at .969.

Additionally, he has some of the finest single season fielding marks in history, owning the fourth best season percentage for a shortstop with a .985 mark in 1959.

Banks also ranks high in several all-time offensive categories: 13th in extra base hits (1,009), 146th in total bases (4,706) and RBI (1,636) and 17th in at-bats (9,421).

The most prolific hitter scheduled to appear in the Old-Timers tilt, however, just might be the seemingly ageless Willie Mays.

Ken Overman's Lead Cut By Cajon Oval Black Flag

There will be fireworks of a different sort when the super stock car drivers engage in a holiday 50-lap main event at Cajon Speedway.

Those extra laps may be necessary to pry loose Ron Overman of El Cajon and Spring Valley's Pat McIntyre in their skirmish for the top of the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Association points standings.

Overman, black-flagged off the track while leading last week's feature, is only 16 points ahead of McIntyre.

The two will head a strong list of drivers who will be bidding for the 20 main events berths with qualifying runs starting at 6:30. The four car, four-lap trophy dash will begin at 8 p.m.

The program includes four 8-lap heats, a 10-lap consolation and a 20-lap semi-main. McIntyre moved into serious contention by winning his second main event of the season last week and his 16th in the last four seasons.

'Brave Bulls' Return To Tijuana Sunday

Three of the most popular matadors to fight in Tijuana in recent years will appear Sunday in the downtown arena, El Toreo de Tijuana, beginning at 4 p.m.

They are Curro Rivera, Jesus (Chucho) Solorzano, and Curro Leal. They will each face two bulls of the Carranco ranch, which recently has become one of Mexico's best.

From then through Sept. 15, a corrida will be held each Sunday.

Rivera, 22, and Leal, 20, both of Mexico City, already have performed this season at Tijuana.

On March 10, Solorzano presented some of the finest cape work and banderilla placement seen in Mexico City in many years. The occasion was the farewell appearance of long-time star Luis Procuna, who shared the banderilla work with Solorzano.

Overman, a 31-year old driver, is having one of his finest years. He lost valuable ground last Saturday when he forced pacesetter Ed Hale into the second corner wall, which brought on the black flag penalty.

McIntyre, who had engine problems during the early part of the season, is bidding for a third straight crown.

Jim Hitt of Lemon Grove failed to qualify for the main event with his Mach 1 Ford and took over Fred Perry's Chevrolet in the feature but didn't have much luck in that car either.

Becker Family Races Together; Wins Together

By H. P. LEVY

Between 8 and 5 on any business day, the place to find Terry Becker, 33, is at Reliance Steel & Aluminum Co. in National City, where he presides over an inside sales desk.

His specialty is selling steel. If you happen to miss him there, try the Monte Vista High School track in Spring Valley a little after 5:30.

He's pretty sure to be at the track four evenings a week jogging a few miles before dinner.

But he won't be alone. Also accompanying him will be his wife Margaret, 28.

The Beckers, of 4114 Citradora in Spring Valley and parents of two, have become what they happily refer to as "track nuts."

They have been running together for nearly a year. And they can show two newly-won trophies to prove there is more to running than getting winded.

They raced together this month—noted not as a team—in Reliance Steel's Fifth Annual Track Meet in Los Angeles, an event run for fun, trophies and a boost toward physical fitness, open to company employees (and spouses) in California, Arizona and Texas.

AND MAMA, TOO—Margaret Becker, 28-year old Spring Valley housewife, ran in a 2-mile race which her husband won. She came in last but won a first place trophy for women as the only female in the race.

team and Margaret is studying History at the Grossmont College evening school and they both like a little time to bike together—and above all, they devote a lot of time to their two youngsters, 3-year-old Jodi and Scott, 5.

The Beckers married seven years ago after she graduated from Grossmont College as a Data Processing major and studied Business one year at San Diego State University and he graduated from San Diego City College, studied a year at San Diego State and spent four years in the Air Force, including time in Thailand.

Margaret enjoys being a housewife.

And Terry is happy with his work. He joined Reliance as an inside salesman more than two years ago after working in the purchasing departments of Solar and Rohr.

Leaving his desk at Reliance at the end of the day, he hurries home to change into track attire and pick up his wife who has already dined the children—and they are off for the track.

Home again, the couple sit down to a leisurely dinner sometime between 7 and 8.

North-South Star Game Date Changed

The North-South All Star High School Football game will be played Thursday, August 1, in Balboa Stadium. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The original date of August 2 was rescheduled to accommodate the circus which required the additional time to set up.

The game, sponsored by the combined Girls Clubs of San Diego and the San Diego Football Coaches Association, will pit All Star Seniors from High Schools in the County. The North-South dividing line is Hwy. 8. The schools to the North and South of the divider will square off against one another.

Proceeds of the game will go to the Seven Girls Clubs in San Diego County.

Rules Available For America's Finest City Cup Bathtub Race

Rules and entry blanks are available for the third annual America's Finest City Cup Bathtub Race to be held Sunday, August 18, according to race chairman, Jim Bracklow.

Rules can be obtained at any of the Farrell's Ice Cream Parlours throughout San Diego County.

The only major change from last year's rules is that engines up to 7½ h.p. will be allowed.

"The committee wants to stress this race is designed solely for fun and family enjoyment and safety will be the prime concern", Bracklow stated.

The Bathtub Race will be the main attraction of a day-long family picnic featuring games and contests to be held at 276-2800.

Newsman Take Golf Trophies

Matt Mitchell, sports editor of the El Cajon Californian, won first place in the Charger Backers annual golf tournament, media section.

Dan Danner, of Lemon Grove, sports editor of the La Mesa Scout, was second. Each won a trophy.

Peoria scoring was Mitchell, 64; Danner 75.

The tourney was at Singing Hills.

Spring Valley Map in the Offing Says Firm

An updated, two-color map of Spring Valley with cartography of new and established streets, and additional community facilities, has been approved by the directors of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce as one of this year's special projects, reported Chamber President Ed Fleming. The Chamber announcement came following the signing of an agreement with Landmark Publishing to publish copies of the local area map.

Landmark Publishing, the Southern California Map Firm which works officially with more than 70 Chambers of Commerce in California and the 11 Western States, will handle drafting, art work and design, as well as printing. Advertising space for local firms and industries will be made available on a fairly limited basis as Fleming phrased it.

The company has assigned Mel Young as its representative, and Young can be contacted through the COC. Chamber members will have first option on the advertising space available, the Chamber said.

Maps will be made available to the local public, tourists, Chamber members, real estate people, service stations, schools, and city and county offices," the chamber leader added.

Pro Soccer Booked For Balboa Stadium Tuesday

The Los Angeles Aztecs, currently the hottest team in the North American Soccer League, and Guadalajara, the most popular soccer team in the Mexican professional ranks, meet for the first time at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at Balboa Stadium.

L. A. is the winningest team in U. S. professional ranks, losing only two of 11 league games.

The Aztecs are also the highest-scoring team in the NASL with 28 goals. L. A. is

'Old Timer'

Continued from Page 6 from 1951-72 and then finished out his career by playing half of 1972 and all of 1973 with the Mets.

In his 22 years in the majors he posted a .302 average with such marks as 3,283 hits, 660 home runs and 1,903 RBI.

Some of his career marks are among the best in the annals of the sport. His more notable accomplishments are: 3rd total bases (6066), home runs (660), runs scored (2,062) and games (2,992); 4th—extra base hits (1,323) and at-bats (10,881); 7th—hits (3,283) and RBI (1,922); 9th—bases on balls (1,503); 11th—slugging percentage (.559) and 16th—doublés (5523).

MVP Two Times

Honors are nothing new to Mays as he broke into baseball as he broke into the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1951. From there he went on to become the circuit's MVP in 1954 and 1955.

Mays appeared in 24 All-Star Games with a average of .307. His best outings were in 1960 when he went three-for-four in both games held that season.

Ten times Mays hit over .300 with his best years being 1958 with a .347 and 1954 with a .345. The latter figure was good enough to lead the league.

One of the most potent home run hitters in the game, he led the league four times in that department, twice breaking the 50-barrier with 51 in 1955 and 52 in 1965.

He also combined flashing speed with power as he topped the league in stolen bases four times with a high of 40 in 1956.

Already named for the contest are the managers of the two teams. Former Brooklyn Dodgers catcher Roy Campanella will head the National League squad while former Boston Red Sox star and American League President Joe Cronin will guide the American League unit.

Mission San Luis Rey Celebrates 176th Birthday Fiesta in July

Several aspects of early California life will be represented July 20 and 21 when Mission San Luis Rey holds its annual summer fiesta with the traditional "Blessing of the Animals," outdoor mass, Mexican and Spanish dancers, and arrival of a troupe of horsemen.

Festivities begin at noon Saturday when gaily decorated pets and other animals are brought to the old mission steps for an Old World "Blessing of the Animals." Activity then moves to a midway of food and arts and crafts booths in front of the mission compound.

Continuous entertainment is provided until 9 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday by Mexican and Spanish dancers, musicians, and actors—as well as the Marine Drum and Bugle Corps. Games, rides, and street dancing are all open to participation by visitors. A western-style barbecue will be served Saturday afternoon, and a deep-pit Mexican-style barbecue will be served from noon on Sunday.

An outdoor mass starts the day's events at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday. The Indian mass from early mission days, "Missa Cataluna," will be performed by a 100-voice choir.

The annual fiesta supports the restoration and maintenance of the old mission buildings and grounds. The 176th fiesta honors Emmerich Piebel, who was active for 12 years in the artistic restoration of the mission church and buildings, and who lived at the fission from 1969 until his death in September of 1973.

Reigning over the celebration will be Pamela Monahan, the fiesta queen, and her princesses, Elizabeth Mediavilla and Kelly Tisdale.

Mission San Luis Rey, known as the King of the Missions, a registered historical landmark, is located four miles east of downtown Oceanside on Highway 76. Ample parking is available, as well as local bus transportation from downtown Oceanside. AMTRAK provides three trains daily in to Oceanside from Los Angeles and San Diego, and Greyhound and Continental Trailways have frequent bus service.

Visitors are welcome to the mission's picnic facilities. Tours are available of the museum, church, and burial grounds.

Thirty-nine Board of Directors guide the Junior Achievement program established to educate high school students in the operations of business.

In JA, students organize their own mini-corporations, sell stock, select, manufacture and market a product or service, keep records, pay wages, salaries and taxes and issue an Annual Report to stockholders upon liquidation in April. All JA Companies operate weekly, October through April.

Energy Efficiency In Room Air Conditioners

If that last heat spell convinced you to shop for a room air-conditioner, you're probably looking for advice on which of the various models is the best overall buy.

To help you make a wise choice, the National Bureau of Standards of the Department of Commerce has developed a six-page fact sheet, Air-Conditioners. Single copies are available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Before you shop, you should be aware that air-conditioners with the same cooling capacity vary greatly in efficiency. This means that some units use more electricity than others to achieve the same cooling and dehumidifying. This variance can amount to a significant difference in operating costs.

For this reason, NBS advises that you check the Energy Efficiency Ratio (EER) of

Careless Use of Pesticides Not Primarily Government Concern

Deputy San Diego County Agricultural Commissioner Ernest R. Blake is asking all residents to do their part in reducing the unnecessary and careless use of pesticides around homes and in gardens throughout San Diego County.

"Regulation of pesticide use by Federal, State, and County agencies has been strengthened," Blake said, "but to do the job right, we must have help from the public."

"Pesticides must be used intelligently. If the public welfare is to be protected, all users — even the homeowner — must use pest control chemicals only when necessary and only as directed on the label." By studying all instructions on a pesticide label, the user can save himself and his children from serious accidents. He can also avoid the potential harmful effect of pesticide misuse on the environment.

While advice regarding proper use of pesticides is always available from the San Diego County Agricultural Commissioner's office, their safe use in the environment can only be assured by the attention given by each consumer to the label instructions.

Suicide Awareness Goal Of Mental Health Program

The American Association of Suicidology has announced a campaign to alert the public to the problem of suicide and to generate cooperation in suicide prevention.

"People generally aren't aware of the scope of the problem," Dr. Richard McGee, president of the association, said, "and often overlook or ignore the danger signs pointing to impending suicide."

Dr. McGee stated that, throughout the world, about 1000 people commit suicide each day. In the United States alone, there are well over 20,000 suicides per year. These estimates are likely to be low, he continued, because many suicides are never reported. Fear of social stigma or insurance losses and vague or inadequate laws controlling suicide reports have combined to keep the number of reports low. As a result, the problem has not been given the attention it warrants and generally receives little concern from the public.

One of the association's goals is to overcome some of the popular misconceptions about suicide so that people have a more accurate understanding of the problem. Among these misconceptions is the belief that people who talk about suicide are not likely to commit it. "This simply isn't true," Dr. McGee says. "People often describe their feelings and say they wish to end their lives before committing suicide. Others who don't specifically mention suicide give indications by saying that their family or friends would be better off without them. Many see a doctor shortly before taking their lives. Unfortunately, the signs they give are often missed or disregarded until it is too late."

Contrary to popular belief, suicide does not predominate in any particular social or economic group. Suicides are common among both rich and poor. Women attempt suicide more frequently than men, but completed suicides are more common among men. Elderly people have the highest suicide rate, but suicide has increased dramatically in young people (age 17-22) in recent years. The suicide rate is higher in whites than in blacks, and in single people than in those who are married.

"If a friend or a relative threatens to take his life or shows other signs of preparing to commit suicide," Dr. McGee concluded, "it is imperative to get help right away. Many communities now have suicide prevention centers or crisis prevention centers. In those that don't people can call a mental health clinic, family physician, or clergyman. In a suicidal situation, a single phone call can save a life."

Horse Vaccination Urged by Official

County animal health officials are strongly recommending vaccination of all horses against "sleeping sickness" (encephalomyelitis).

According to Dr. D. J. Thacker of the Office of County Veterinarian, there are two types of equine encephalomyelitis vaccinations that California horses need.

The Western Strain (W.E.E.) of the vaccine is given annually, preferably in the spring. The Venezuelan strain (V.E.E.) gives longer lasting immunity and is repeated only in high risk areas such as near the Mexican border where the disease is most likely to be reintroduced.

Most horses were immunized against the Venezuelan strain in the fall of 1971 during a massive campaign to eradicate this disease from the U. S. However, many horses foaled since then have not been vaccinated.

The law requires that horses moving into or within the State be accompanied by a certificate of C.E.E. vaccination.

Owners should contact their veterinarians regarding vaccination against both forms of "sleeping sickness".

Feminist Curricula Offered at 'Free-U'

The Feminist Free University, a community based liberation school of, for, and by women, has existed since the summer of 1972, and is the only school of its kind in the entire San Diego area.

Traditional educational programs and institutions neglect the needs and concerns of women, according to school officials. From pre-school to graduate school, teaching methods and materials are overwhelmingly sex biased or sexist. Furthermore, many women are denied access to existing programs because of financial problems, lack of transportation, lack of child care, etc. Goals of the school include: to make women's ideas, creations, work, and above all, needs and focus of study and action. 2) to provide a variety of meaningful learning experiences for women without cost, 3) to provide supportive services when ever possible, such as child care and transportation for women who would otherwise be unable to attend classes or workshops. 4) to encourage and foster positive changes in all educational systems.

The forthcoming Summer Free-you begins the week of July 15.

Feminist educational fare you can choose from according to your need, taste, or interest: Feminist Counseling training Sessions, a New Group for Office Workers, Vegetarianism, 3 groups sponsored by Woman Care Clinic—Women and Health, Post Partum Group, and Self-Help, Employment Discrimination Workshop, Credit Discrimination Training for Women, Body Aliveness Workshop, Non-Sexist Child Rearing, Plumbing Repair, General Home Repair, Women and Corrections, Creative Solutions rap group, Women and The Law, Socialism and Feminism, Basic Mime and Beginning Drawing.

Registration for the Summer session of 1974 will be held on Saturday, July 13, from 1-3 at 908 F st., San Diego. There is an optional $3 enrollment fee to pay for again.

Printing, mailing, child care and other operational costs. An unlimited number of classes may be taken.

YOU AND YOUR PET

by: Raymond A. Minor, D.V.M.

Unless your dog is suffering from a specific ailment identified by your veterinarian, it is generally accepted that he or she will benefit from an occasional bath. Veterinarians are often asked how "occasional" should that bath be?

The answer is that the average dog should have a bath about every eight weeks. Puppies normally should not be put in a tub until they are at least five or six months old.

To prepare your puppy for his first bath, plug cotton loosely into his ears, and place a small drop of mineral oil or a similar emulsion into each eye.

When your dog learns to cooperate and does not put up a fuss while bathing, these first steps can be skipped. But, if he resists and is hard to handle, his eyes and ears should be protected from soapy water or he'll fight harder the next time.

Puppies are subject to upper respiratory ailments and get a chill quickly when wet. So be sure the room is dry and the water comfortably warm. A mild soap should be used.

Sand your dog's water up to the middle of his legs, leaving plenty of free space beneath for hand scrubbing.

Be Gentle

Wet him all over thoroughly but gently to avoid fright. Using a washcloth, go over his face with clear water. Then, beginning from the top of his head, soap him down well — over his neck, back and around the tail. Generously soap his underbody, legs and feet, giving special attention to the undersides of his paws, the base of his tail and between his toes.

Using your fingers, thoroughly massage the soap into his coat so that it reaches the skin. Rinse quickly, then soap again.

It is important to rinse the coat thoroughly, for even a small amount of soap left dry in his hair can cause dandruff and scratching. A few drops of vinegar added to your rinse water helps to remove the soap.

Life your dog out of the tub and dry him with a Turkish towel or chamoin. It takes a lot of time to dry a heavy coat well, so go slowly. Do not brush or comb the coat when it is wet; rub it with a towel or fluff it with an electric dryer.

Be absolutely sure your dog is dry before letting him go outdoors. In the winter or in unseasonably cold weather, shut your dog up in a warm, draft-free room for a couple of hours. Although the dog's coat may seem dry on the surface, check underneath for dampness.

Yes, you may use commercially prepared dry shampoos to clean your dog. This kind of cleansing can prove to be especially helpful during the cold winter months and can keep down "doggy odors" with out the fuss of a bath. A check with your local veterinarian before purchasing a product is wise.

Although there are dogs that battle their way through each washing — sometimes requiring the assistance of two or more family members — for the most part, fear of bathing is unnecessary and can be avoided if it is handled firmly but gently.

The manner in which you give your dog his first few baths will have a lot to do with making your dog like them. And, once he does, it will save you time and trouble.

Dr. Minor regrets that he is unable to personally answer letters from pet owners. He suggests that readers consult their own veterinarians when their pets have problems.
